Why BookKeeping Express is a good business move

It is known that most business owners do not enjoy doing taxes and are reluctant to take on bookkeeping tasks. This can be a risky move it they go with individuals offering to do their bookkeeping for low prices. But as the saying goes "some things are just too good to be true". Often, these bookkeepers that businesses trust with their financial have little to no formal training, education, and no certifications.

With BKE, that is not the case. BookKeeping Express provides its client base with bookkeepers that have had formal training, have completed college, and are certified. With our strong team and technology tools, BookKeeping Express is quickly becoming a trusted partner for small businesses that cannot handle their books and do not want to bring on more staff.

"Unemployables" Amoung Top Entrepreneurs

Many workers today are stuck in employment limbo. Either they are too young to retire and in the eyes of many companies they are too old to rehire. In a study published by the Urban Institute in 2012 they found that workers in their 50s are 20% less likely to be re-employed.

For this reason many middle aged members of the work force have decided to start their own businesses. Instead of being told they are over qualified or not getting call backs, many are taking action and becoming entreprenuers.

For those budding entrepreneurs looking for the right model for them, BookKeeping Express is the answer. For more information about BookKeeping Express and Franchising, click here.

About Us

BookKeeping Express is a dynamic and rapidly growing nationally recognized company specializing in virtual back office bookkeeping services for the small business community. Founded in California in 1984 with a goal to solve the day to day problems experienced by small sized businesses struggling to manage their finances, the virtual services model was established to revolutionize bookkeeping.

At BookKeeping Express, we know that one of the most important financial aspects of managing and operating your business is implementing the proper bookkeeping system that will help you to maintain your bookkeeping records on an ongoing basis. We also understand that each industry's bookkeeping is different from other industries due to various complications. That is why our professionals are equipped to help your business grow by identifying opportunites, uncovering problems, evening out cash flow, minimizing tax liability, and preventing payroll nightmares.

With over 40 locations throughout the United States, we can help just about any small business to more efficiently process their bookkeeping needs.
